Doctoral researcher (PhD) in Empirical Finance

(Valid from 19/05/2023 to 19/07/2023)

The Department of Finance of the Faculty of Law, Economics and Finance of the University of Luxembourg is looking for a PhD candidate to conduct research in Empirical Finance.

Your Role...

The doctoral researcher will be working under the supervision of Professor Thorsten Lehnert. The doctoral researcher's main task will be to prepare a doctoral thesis in the field of Empirical Finance. The thesis work will be undertaken at the University of Luxembourg but can also be jointly-supervised with another university. The doctoral candidate will contribute to the teaching of classes ranging from one to three hours per week, of small group teachings and tutorials.

The doctoral researcher will benefit from being part of a large research group comprising several PhDs working on related topics. The doctoral researcher will be a member of the Department of Finance, which is located in the financial center of Luxembourg at Campus Kirchberg. The department consists of research-oriented faculty members and provides an international and stimulating environment with regular research seminars and several high-quality conferences. The department collaborates with the Luxembourg financial center, the European Stability Mechanism, the Central Bank of Luxembourg and other financial institutions located in Luxembourg.

Qualifications...

We are looking for a candidate with demonstrated interest in Finance. In particular, the following requirements apply:

- A Master's Degree in Finance.
- Have the linguistic skills to evolve in a multilingual environment: fluency in English and a good understanding of a second language, German or French in particular, will be considered an advantage.
- Excellent communication and writing skills.

In Short...

- Contract Type: 36 months Fixed Term Contract (extendable to 48 months if required)
- Work Hours: Full-time position, 40h/week
- Location: Kirchberg
- Employee and student status
- Job Reference: UOL05489

In particular, we offer:

- An exciting international and multilingual research environment and the possibility to be part of a research team working on related topics.
- Personal workspace (full-time contract requires the doctoral candidate to work at the University premises).
- Travel opportunities for training and learning.
- The University offers highly competitive salaries is an equal opportunity employer.

How to apply...

Please apply ONLINE formally through the HR system and include:

- A motivation letter.
- A detailed curriculum vitae.
- A transcript of concluded university studies.
- The name, current position and relationship to the applicant, of one referee.
