About the RMIT Vice-Chancellor's Research Fellowships Program

Each year, RMIT brings on the world's best and brightest researchers and teams to undertake transdisciplinary applied research that creates positive impact for society, the economy and the environment.

The RMIT Vice-Chancellor's Research Fellowships program enables some of the world's best research talent to flourish and make a difference in areas that matter for our future. If you are ambitious and enjoy working in team environments to achieve impact from your excellent research, we invite you to apply to become an RMIT Vice Chancellor's Research Fellow.

Applications are now open at Academic levels A-D in three focused areas of priority as follows:

- Regenerative Futures
- MedTech Innovation, and
- Digital Innovation.

Prestigious RMIT Vice-Chancellor's Research Fellowships are available in one of five categories covering academic levels A to D with generous research support funding annually (refer to Fellowships categories for eligibility and details), as well as:

- Access to RMIT's research facilities and interdisciplinary networks;
- Mentoring;
- Access to researcher development programs to discover new pathways to impact; and
- Supported and flexible workplace – RMIT is a recognised employer of choice.
