Candidates must have completed a PhD and have a record of publishing in ABS 3 or ABS 4 management journals or show promise and trajectory to do so in the near future. EADA is particularly interested in candidates who work on the implications of society's grand challenges for the marketing profession - in research, teaching and practice..

The candidate would be joining EADA's full-time faculty, currently composed of 35 people, and working closely with our large group of adjunct faculty. EADA's researchers have published their work in leading management journals including: Academy of Management Journal, Journal of Marketing Research, Personality and Social Psychology Bulletin, Human Resource Management Journal, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Vocational Behavior, Technovation, Business Strategy and the Environment, Journal of Operations Management, Journal of Supply Chain Management, among others.

While the role and focus on research at EADA has grown significantly in recent years, EADA is a teaching-led institution that believes in the need for Business Schools to be close to the needs of its programme participants and corporate clients. We do this by providing high-quality, research-informed programmes, and focussing on the development of managerial competences and skills necessary for leadership, teamwork and critical thinking.

Your teaching will be informed by your own discipline-based scholarship and, by your own practice and research. Successful candidates hold a Ph.D., demonstrate excellent teaching abilities (on- and offline), have strong research skills and are expected to contribute to customised in-company programmes. For associate and full professor levels, management experience in academic and industry positions will be considered a bonus. The ability and willingness to teach in both Spanish and English will also be taken into consideration, since successful candidates will have to interact in both languages. Experience in the use of the case methodology for teaching is considered a plus.
