Graphic Design (Illustration) Lecturer

Job title Lecturer in Graphic Design (illustration)

Location De Montfort University Kazakhstan (Almaty)

Employment type Full-time

Start date End of January/ February 2026

De Montfort University (DMU) Kazakhstan invites experienced academics and industry professionals to apply for short-term/long-term teaching opportunities at our international transnational education (TNE) campuses in Almaty. These appointments offer a unique opportunity to gain international teaching experience and contribute to an innovative British education model abroad.

About the Role

We are seeking an experienced, open-minded design educator or practitioner to teach on our BA (Hons) Graphic Design and BA (Hons) Graphic Design (Illustration) programmes. This teaching-focused role involves delivering studio workshops and critiques, supervising projects, supporting curriculum development, and mentoring students within an international, creative faculty.

Candidate Profile

Ideal candidates will have:

- A degree in a relevant field (Master's preferred)
- A strong design portfolio
- Teaching or mentoring experience
- Ability to teach across undergraduate levels
- English fluency
- A collaborative, student-first approach

Experience in illustration is highly attractive.

What We Offer

- Competitive salary (10% tax)
- Housing allowance
- Arrival and return flights
- Healthcare
- 56 days paid leave
- Creative freedom & professional development opportunities
- A chance to shape the next generation of creatives at a UK university in Central Asia

Why Almaty?

Almaty, Kazakhstan – A vibrant city nestled in the Tien Shan mountains, Almaty offers a mix of modern urban life and scenic natural beauty. With its European ambiance and Central Asian hospitality, it is a gateway to cultural and outdoor exploration. Known for its rich cultural history, welcoming community, and fast-growing education sector, the city offers both inspiration and opportunity.
