Are you interested in teaching business subjects at HELBUS? Send us an open application! Your application will arrive in our talent bank, which is our first source of information when we seek to hire new instructors. We have positions for flying faculty teaching three-week intensive courses, fully online teaching as well as teaching modules that require residency in Finland.

Our general requirements are the following:

- Excellent English language communication skills
- Teaching and assessment experience of the subject at Bachelor's or Master's level

- Experience in blended or fully online programme delivery

Please include in your application letter specific reference to the following matters that we especially value:

- Practice area experience and contacts in industry
- Formal teaching qualifications
- Experience in the UK higher education sector and/or Higher National Diploma
- A postgraduate research degree such as PhD
- A student-centred approach and active learning methods such as the Harvard case methodology
- Proficiency in virtual learning environments such as Moodle, Blackboard; experience with online teaching tools and methods
- Ability to design and deliver inclusive, engaging content for diverse learners including integrating AI tools in teaching and learning

We do not respond to emailed applications. If your application fulfils our requirements, we will keep your application for two years whereafter it will be deleted unless you choose to renew it. We will contact you as soon as a suitable vacancy seems to match your profile!
